

STAMFORD LIBRARY CATALOGUE OF BOOKS 1907

In these days of computerised digital online catalogues, we forget that at one time the only way to access information was via the printed or written word. In the case of Stamford Public Library before World War One it was possible to buy a small booklet containing a full list of its holdings, this extended to a small printed book. In 1907 the paperback edition sold for three half pennies (old money) and was printed by Dolby Brothers. The previous year's edition was printed by Taylor and Downs and could be bought in hard back as well.

The 1907 catalogue was split into eight parts; Fiction and Light Literature, Voyages and Travels, Science, Arts and Politics, Theology and Philosophy, History and Biography, General Literature, Poetry and the Drama, and a List of Books on Open Shelves. Whilst Francis Peck's Annals of Stamford (published in 1727), British Museum Publications and Pictures of Nuremburg were available on request.

Stamford Library still has a copy of Francis Peck's Annals of Stamford in its Local History Reference Collection and the 1979 EP reprint is on open shelves and is available to borrow.

By the time of the Annual Report in May 1907 the Library had enrolled 1047 people. During the previous 12 months 28,279 books had been issued of which 25,169 had been works of fiction. The total holdings of books on March 31st 1907 was 2312, and in addition the Reading Room had 275 periodicals.
